We are now being denied the benefits of sending our young people abroad to further their education. If a lot of young people are educated and at the same time create a lot of new and innovative companies and products, this is a win-win situation. This is something that can strengthen the country and benefit the economy. There is no need to bring this fight to the European Union. Here in our country there is much more room for manoeuvre. Our Prime Minister has announced that our universities will be open to our neighbours, not only for students, but also for teachers, researchers and students in other countries. We are also very keen on exporting products,
