 of Madness The Tide of Madness is a six-part British television horror drama, co-written and directed by John Mackenzie. It was made by Shooting Star Productions for the BBC and first broadcast on BBC One in 2002. The serial revolves around an unhinged scientist, Joseph, who cuts open pregnant women to extract their foetuses in order to unlock a genetic code for immortality. Joseph is eventually hunted down by a special taskforce within the police, who believe that he may be leading a group of the newly-discovered Easter Rising ex-RAF servicemen, many of whom have been admitted to a secret psychiatric facility. Mackenzie, a film maker, wrote the scripts for several of his own films before The Tide of Madness was made. The series featured Mackenzie's wife, Victoria, as Moll. Elizabeth Haynes, Lance Riddell and Alan Williams respectively portrayed the doctor, Chief of Staff and police detective. In response to the first episode, a small controversy arose in relation to the on-screen portrayal of Irish people by Anglo-Irish actress Haynes, who some believed was portraying members of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) with poor accents. Episodes five and six of the serial were repeated on BBC2 within 24 hours of the BBC1 broadcasts, to accommodate high viewing figures. The Tide of Madness was controversial during its initial run, winning several critical panning reviews, but it has since gained a cult following and been included in a number of lists of the best television programmes. Production Mackenzie, a movie maker before he became a television writer/producer, approached Shooting Star Productions to write the scripts for a new television project. He wanted to write a different kind of drama, saying: "we're used to seeing people dying". His scripts for the series featured several characters who had already appeared in his previous projects, such as In the Bleak Midwinter. The storyline of The Tide of Madness drew upon events that had previously occurred in The Children of the Hawk (1996) and Honey for Tea (1998), a short film that Mackenzie also directed. The bulk of the script was written while Mackenzie was in prison, although it also took him two and a half years to write the script. He wrote the first draft of the episode in fifteen days, a testament to the concentration that he aimed to maintain at the outset. The director only read the first episode after it was complete, viewing the scenes with an entirely different mindset

Felix (the main character) is an adventurer who lives on the idyllic northern island of Lutwyche, far from the concerns of the outside world. He's looking for the holy grail, an artifact of immense power that was swallowed by a beast called the Destroyer who now patrols the world of Lutwyche. The grail is Felix's dream, and he vows to get it for himself. "Zeran's Folly" was named after Felix's father, Zeran, who is immortalized in the game. His ashes are scattered on the beach in his son's honor and whenever the holy grail is mentioned, this plays a jaunty tune. Play with the whole family. Felicia is Felix's brother, and she can change outfits and play mini-games by herself. When Felix is playable alone, it is possible for him to live with his friend Sam, a friendly alpaca. They live in the gloomy ruins of an abandoned stone manor. Recruit a friend to come along with you, just like Zeran. Enter their name in the multiplayer section to find them. Zeran's Folly is set in a mysterious world where mysteries abound. It features dozens of weapons, armor sets, and magical artifacts to discover. It also features hundreds of enemies who challenge Felix's skills and abilities. Enter dark and foreboding dungeons and have it out with an assortment of creatures, including rats, vampires, flying pigs, and mutant badgers. Customize your armor and weapons and unlock upgrade slots to increase their damage and attack speed. Exclusive to Zeran's Folly, there are many accessories you can find. These include hats, glasses, and golden rings to gain special abilities. There are also several minigames you can play to earn these accessories. Play the Mini-games that earn you accessories, and also play the minigames in the rest of the game. In "Zeran's Folly" these are known as the Duel game, the Gel-Blast game, the Blackjack game, and the Hoverboard surfing game. You can rebind the controls to your liking via the "New Map" feature, so feel free to experiment with different controls. The "Upgrade List" feature reveals the full value of your gear, as well as the extras you can unlock by equipping specific items. Rewards earned from dead enemies can be used to buy powerups from the shop, including

The present invention relates generally to a long handle style furnace welder and, in particular, to a long handle style furnace welder with improved mounting and alignment features. There are many different types of welding equipment available. One common type of equipment is a long weld gun. Weld guns often have a probe portion that is used to deposit material on a work piece. Weld guns have a control portion which is used to control the electro-arc welding process. The control portion of the welding equipment, for example, may include manual switches to turn the electro-arc welding device on or off, a power control switch to control the welding current, or dials or pedals to adjust the welding voltage, to name a few. A long handle style welder has a handle/instrument portion which is the most often manipulated part of the welding equipment. With a long handle style welder, a clamp is attached to the control portion of the welding equipment where the welding torch is positioned. A person holding the welding torch, however, may be hindered by having their hand/arm positioned relative to the control portion of the welding equipment. A handle that provides varying degrees of leverage on the welding equipment is shown in the inventor's prior co-pending patent application, U.S. Ser. No. 09/728,085 filed Dec. 4, 2000 entitled xe2x80x9cHANDLE FOR ELECTRIC WELDING MACHINExe2x80x9d which is incorporated in its entirety in this document for all purposes. The Applicant in the instant application includes the disclosure of such a device in his co-pending patent application U.S. Ser. No. 09/549,318 filed on Apr. 24, 2000. The application entitled xe2x80x9cHANDLE FOR ELECTRIC WELDING MACHINExe2x80x9d is incorporated herewith in its entirety for all purposes. The present invention is intended
